STANFORD, KY., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1878.

WHOLE NUMBER 346.

Katie Lee and Willie Gray.

Ten brown heads with tawny curls, Red lips shutting over pearls, Two feet white and soft with dew, Two eyes black and two eyes blue, Little girl and boy were they Katie Lee and Willie Gray.

They were standing where a bench, Looking like a shepherd's flock, Planted to smile, and long and long To green willows lined the banks Half in thought and half in play—Katie Lee and Willie Gray.

They had checked like cherubs;
He was taller, and a head, She, with arms like wreaths of snow, Wearing a basket on her head,
As he looked, half in play, Chattering with Willie Gray.

"Pretty Katie," Willie said, And then came a dash of red From the corners of his cheek "They are strong, but girls are weak, And I'll carry you," he said, Katie looked at him and smiled.

Katie answered with a laugh, "You shall carry only half!"
And then, turning back her eyes "Boys are weak as well as girls,"
"Do you think that Katie Gray Huffs at a fellow like yourself?"

She was only a boy, Willie said, Hearts don't change much after all,
And when long years have passed,
Katie Lee and Willie Gray
Shall smile beside the bench, Holding like a shepherd's flock.

But when Katie and Willie said,
"We are strong, but girls are weak,"
"Do you think that Katie Gray Huffs at a fellow like yourself?"

It is an old saying that a brother is a severe critic. Certainly he is not likely to have many illusions about his sister. He knows whether her beauty goes to her head at night and gets up with her early in the morning. He is not deceived by the amability of her parlor smile. He understands how much genuine feeling there is under her many affections. He loves her; but his affection has no language over his eyes. He is always sensitive about keeping her free from censure or suspicion. A girl's knowledge of her brother is seldom so accurate. She is prone to make mistakes about his abilities in worldly pursuits if not about his household virtues, and he plays the part of her hero until a more important and commonly less deserving person appears and pushes him from the pedestal of her heart. Boys never make any schemes for marrying their sisters, and are never quite sure, not withstanding all their harsh home judgments, that any fellow is good enough for them. Girls always have a dear friend whom they want their pet brother to marry, but if that plot fails they grow critical in regard to the qualifications of his future wife, and often render themselves disagreeable to him by pointing out faults only visible to a feminine but especially obnoxious to a masculine judgment. Indeed it may be assumed that a man's sister will be harder to please touching the worth, beauty and social standing of his wife than he is himself. [World.]

The Court of Appeals has done itself no credit by reversing the decision of the Garrard County Circuit Court, sentencing Grove Kennedy, the "Goul-dent murderer and distinguished outlaw" (as Artemus Ward would call him) to the Penitentiary for life, and remanding the case back for another trial. Night or wrong, almost the entire body of the law-abiding people of Central Kentucky believe that the sentence of the Garrard Court was, if any difference, no lighter punishment than so flagrant, insolent and atrocious a criminal deserved. The whole State will be shocked by the intelligence, for, as a general rule, a new trial in such cases means absolute impunity for the criminal by acquittal, pardon, breaking jail, forfeiture of bail or escape in some or other of the many forms possible to the ingenuity of lawyers, favored by the lapse of time and the gradual dying out of public interest in the case. [Dollar Decay.]

The public instincts of the New York public were pretty well explained last week. The theatres remained rather empty as a general thing, but $17,000 were taken in at Giltner's Garden to see two people walk around in a ring. One of them was so drunk a good portion of the time he could hardly stand, much less walk, and the other kept sober while he walked and got drunk afterward.
But the ladies of New York threw bouquets and sent private notes to both these men, and otherwise demonstrated their approval of this high form of art. Charming, really! [Dramatic News.]

The Congressional Race.

He sure your ballot reads, Philip B.
Thompson, Jr.

Great preparations are making for the big Democratic barbecue at Danville, Tuesday. In the absence of canvassers, the national bank goose will be cooked. [Courier-Journal.]

The Republican papers of the 8th district now speak of their candidate for Congress as "Uncle George, the farmer." They never mention his palatial residence and his National bank. [Courier-Journal.]

Denny professes to be a Christian and he has read the Bible. Betrayed Christ for thirty pieces of silver. That is the reason he uses silver instead of National Bank notes in his canvass.
Even Judas Iscariot would have seemed to receive the issue of institutions that were conceived in iniquity and brought forth in sin. [Harrodsburg Observer.]

The Danville Advertiser, whose editor was an original Durham man, talks sensitively in this wise: "Judge Durham is a Democrat and those who supported him are Democrats. Some of us were badly disappointed in not having him to bear our standard once again to victory, but because we failed that is no reason why we should kick out of the party traces and go to the aid of the most intense Republican in the District."

The friends of Judge Durham were remarkably active for that gentleman; and both at and prior to the nominating Convention, they did all within their power to secure him as the nominee of the party. Had they been successful they would not only have expected, but would by right have demanded, that the friends of Mr.
Thompson and the other candidates should support him. But being defeated, it is not fair for Mr. Thompson's friends to presume that Judge Durham's supporters will be equally magnanimous, and come up to his help with the same unanimity which they would have asked if their candidate had received the fractional vote which would have made him the party's choice? Mr. Thompson's adher-ents have the right to demand, as good Democrats, that they will cast aside now all personal preferences and warmly rally to his aid. It is one of the principles of the time-honored party that when Democrats go into Convention they do so with the tacit understanding that if their favorite is beaten they will support the nominee.
They feel honorably bound so to do, and we cannot see how a true Democrat can secede from his implied promise. There are a few Democrats in the District who have manifested some disaffection with the result of the Stanford Convention, and they have made some niggardly speeches which would have been better unsaid, but we are satisfied, after mature deliberation, they will recall their words and will be found at the polls on the first Tuesday in November with a Thompson ballot in their hands. How they could vote for Mr. Denny passes our comprehension. He was an original Radical, has supported all the Radicals who ran in his county, district, and State, every Radical Administration at Washington, including Grant, Babcock, Belknap, Hayes, the Louisiana fraud, the Florida fraud; was with the party in '66 and '67, when the bayonet policy was inaugurated in Kentucky, and when Democrats were required to take an infamous oath or be driven from their voting places with abuse and insults by soldiers who disregarded the uniforms they wore—these and other things Mr. Denny's party inaugurated and upheld, and as he still stays with them it is only natural to presume that he approved them. [Richmond Register.]

Ye are not, ordinarily, matter meet for romanticism, but the Oakland Times chronicles a very poetic episode resultant from the transplanting of a tooth. A "society belle" of Oakland had sustained the incomparable loss of a front tooth. She appealed to a leading dentist, who in due time was enabled to supply the deficiency from the dental store of a handsome but impecunious Spaniard. The tooth took root and made itself at home in the lady's mouth. From the hundred dollars he received for the prize the foreigner was enabled to establish a prosperous business. In the meantime the minds of both young persons had been busied in wondering, the one over the origin and the other over the destination of that tooth. One evening at a "select party" they met—he smiled and casually mentioned the cause of the vacancy in the front row of ivory; the "society belle" gave a little shriek; and now it is rumored that a love-match will shortly occur in fashionable Oakland circles between the respective owners of that tooth. [Courier-Journal.]

The Latest Reliance.

A visitor lately returned to this city from the Paris Exhibition, relates a new device for gathering in the residents of agricultural districts.
The trick is so plausible that it is bound to be introduced into this country, surely in time to be operated at next year's State and County Fairs.
The game is played first by means of a display advertisement, calling attention to the fact that a certain photographer, anxious to advertise himself, will give away a photograph for nothing if applications is made to him within a prescribed time. There is nothing the average stranger so delights in as obtaining pictures of himself and family in their best array.
Such an advertisement never fails to draw hundreds of victims who are anxious, as every body is, to get something for nothing. This is considered by some the great game of life.
The result of this attempt is thus described: The lancelet calls upon the photographer and asks, "Is this the place where I can get a photograph for nothing?"

"Certainly it is the place."
"Well, I am ready."
"All right."

Then the victim is posed. He drops into the usual attitude of a grim consciousness and soon the preliminary work is done.

A proof is shown. "Ah, I am glad that pleases you." The artist disappears. Soon he returns with a packet of photographs, and placing them in the hands of the caller, he says:
"There are five dollars to pay."

"Five dollars?"
"Yes, five dollars. That is the price we charge for printing a dozen photographs."

"But, I thought this was the place where photographs are given away for nothing."

"So it is. Count the cards you have in your hand and you will find your dozen contains thirteen. The old one we give you."

Here is something that the average visitor can not surmount, and as he has a lot of photographs that he would not have otherwise bought, he never refuses to pay.

The device is one that is outside of the law, for the photographer claims to give value received in the shape of photographs. [Washington Correspondence Chicago Times.]

New Proverbial Philosophy.
A short horse is soon curried, but a mule, short or long, will kick you into the next township.

A wise man reflects before he speaks; a fool speaks, and then reflects while his eye is getting well.

Who hath a cold hat sorrow to his sops, especially if his handkerchief hath starch in it.

Who wants to beat a dog soon finds a stick, but already has the dog shot around the next corner yelling "ki-y!"

What cannot be cured must be endured, but first try Jones' Magic Liniment.

Trust not to a horse's heels, nor a dog's tooth, neither a trait who says he'll pay you Saturday.

The fool never thinks bigger than the top of his house, and penneth the feste joke at the expense of the lightning rod agent.

Raise no more spirits than you can conjure down, say, at four swallows.

Kather go to bed supperless this rice in debt, now that the bankrupt law has expired.

A spendthrift lets go the bridle, grabs hauled by the mane and yells, "Whoa, Enamel!" [Oil City Derrick.]

The editor of London Truth is himself a Jew, and a very able one, and he makes the following remarks: "I have never understood the touchiness of Jews at being called Jews, even when the term is used rather as a designation of a race than as opprobrious. I see nothing to be either particularly ashamed of, or to be particularly proud of, in being a Jew. In England, Jews have a great advantage over Christians, because, while they have the advantage of being Englishmen, they also have the advantage of belonging to a powerful fraternity, bound together like Free Masons, ever ready to support any of its members.
Few people are more exclusive than Jews, and no people have more marked traits of character. Let an Englishman and a Jew have the same fortune, and the latter will spend more than the former. Out of business they are more ostentatious, more liberal and more charitable than Christians. I would rather, with an eye to my own interests, do business with a Christian than with a Jew; but, were I a beggar, I would rather beg of a Jew than a Christian."

Parents, mothers, nurses, do not fail to give Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup to the little ones for all cases of cough or colds. Cuts only 25 cents.

One of the largest establishments for the manufacture of lampglass is at Petrolia, Pa. The method of production is remarkable. The flames of several thousands of gas jets are made to impinge against sheets of slate, on which the smoke of fine carbon is deposited, just as a piece of glass is smoked when held over a candle flame.
When a sufficient deposit of the smoke has formed on the slates, it is scraped off, packed and sent to the market.
The gas which supplies this lampglass comes from the ground near the works.
Besides its oil wells, Petrolia is celebrated for its wonderful gas wells, which furnish inexhaustible supplies of fuel for steam engines, heating, cooking, etc. From Petrolia to Pittsburgh there is an oil pipe line by which oil is driven to market by force pumps, operated by steam power; the boilers being heated by gas supplied by one of the gas wells. We almost wonder that the Petrolia people do not introduce the use of gas engines and thus dispose with the use of steam boilers.

A drowning man from the Princess Alice offered a boatman £5 to save him. The latter called out that he "could not do for that price."

"I'll give you £10!" screamed the half-drowned man.

"It's worth more than that, Guvnor," composedly returned the waterman.

"Fifteen pounds, then," pantingly replied the drowner, almost with his last breath.

"No, but I'll tell you not—I'll save you for £20."

There was no other alternative, for the boatman evidently meant what he said, and the victim consented. He was hauled into the boat and rowed ashore, and directly they got to land the boatman demanded the money.
Said the late victim—

"I would have given you £5 willingly, but since you have shown your self such a black-hearted scoundrel, you shall have nothing."

The boatman swore and stormed, but without avail, and all he could get was the name and address of the man, who said he might, if he liked, "take the law on him."

The boatman means to go to law, and he has commenced an action against the man for breach of contract. A well-known South London solicitor has the case in hand.

Cleopatra's Needle which has been brought from the Nile and set up with much trouble and expense on the banks of Thames, is showing a disposition to crumble to pieces after its exposure to salt water and the unaccustomed climate of England.

The Newspaper Record.

Pays the River Falls Gazette: We suppose many people think that the newspaper men are persistent duns.
Let a farmer place himself in a similar position and see if he would do the same. Suppose he raises 1,000 bushels of wheat and his neighbor should come and buy a bushel, and the price was a small matter of $2 or less, and he says, "I will hand you the amount in a few days." As the farmer does not want to be small about the matter he says all right, and the man leaves with his wheat. Another comes in the same way until the whole $1,000 bushels of wheat are trusted out to one thousand different persons, and not one of the persons concerns himself about it, for it is a small amount he owes the farmer and of course that would not help him any. He does not realize that the farmer has frittered away all his crop of wheat and that his value is due him in a thousand little dribbles, and he is seriously embarrassed in his business because his debtors treat it as a small matter. But if all would pay him promptly, which they could do as well as not, it would be a very large amount to the farmer, and enable him to carry on his business without difficulty. The above comparison is too true a statement of the difficulties that the newspaper man has to contend with.

Shooting a Woman Out of a Cannon.

They are making a sensation in the Aquarium by shooting a woman from a cannon. The cannon seems to be made of wood, and is mounted after the manner of a mortar. It stands in front of the stage, pointing at an angle of about thirty-five or forty degrees, between the upturned faces of the spectators and the rafters overhead. At the close of her trapeze act, Miss Geraldine comes down the rope, head foremost, by twining one leg around it, and with her disengaged toe describing an Archimedian spiral.
She is then assisted to the raised muzzle of the cannon, into the bore of which she slips, feet first, lying on her back. Her head and neck are just visible when the gun is charged.
Then she gives the word, the report of the cannon is heard and she flies toward the spectators, going some twenty-five or thirty feet in a straight line before she drops to the net spread to catch her, when she again steps upon the stage and smiles her acknowledgment of the applause. Her bright garments are not at all blackened by powder, a fact which is doubtless due to the interior mechanism of the cannon. [Cin. Enquirer, New York Tel-

One of the largest establishments for
the manufacture of lampglass is at Petrolia, Pa. The method of production is remarkable. The flames of sev-
which the smoke of fine carbon is de-
smoked when held over a candle flame.
When a sufficient deposit of the smoke
has formed on the slates, it is scraped
off, packed and sent to the market.
comes from the ground near the works.
Besides its oil wells, Petrolia is celebrated for its wonderful gas wells,
which furnish inexhaustible supplies
of fuel for steam engines, heating,
cooking, etc. From Petrolia to Pitts-
oil is driven to market by force pumps,
dispose with the use of steam boilers.

Alice offered a boatman £5 to save
him. The latter called out that he

half-drowned man.

composedly returned the waterman.

THE L. & N. R. R. has fixed the route from Louisville to Memphis, for returning refugees at $12 for those who are able to pay, and $6 to those who are not so able. The city of Louisville, has, with her well known liberality, agreed to pay the passage of those who have no money at all. Long as Louisville is the hearts of the southern people and all lovers of genuine and open hearted charity.

A RESOLUTION was passed by our County Convention, with great unanimity, that each participant would "abide the result of the District Convention and support the nominee whoever he may be"—and the man who fails to do so, falsifies his word and places himself in an attitude the most unenviable.

WOODFORD, Dr. Blackburn's native county, endorsed him to the Democracy of the State on Court day, and promised him her undivided support for Governor. Hurrah for the old hero!

THE Superior Court having declared the loan Constitutional and bonds legal, the Cincinnati Southern R. R. will now be pushed to completion with vigor.

HON. J. B. BECK has our thanks for a number of important public documents.

Mr. Blackburn was frequently interrupted by cheers long and loud, while the ladies of the assembly clapped their hands in appreciation. When this favorite speaker retired, Mr. Wm. McKee Fox was appropriately introduced, and delivered a humorous and telling little speech. Then the cry arose for "Blackburn!" "Dr.

HEAVY SENTENCE.—A. Cunningham, of Lancaster, who was tried before the United States Court at Louisville, a few days ago for selling tobacco from undamped boxes, was convicted and sentenced to pay $1,000 fine and to be imprisoned 6 months in the Federal County Jail, where he was lodged last Saturday.

IT is not necessary to send your message off to Cincinnati or Louisville, to have your clothes made, for it is a well known fact that out of the large and elegant stock of clothing at Messrs. Haylen Bros., you can get a perfect fit in any kind of goods you want. Their overcoats are superb, and made in the very latest fashion, out of the best woolen fabrics. On three and examine for yourselves.

WILL VOTE FOR THOMPSON.—Leo Hayden, Esq., who owns one National Bank stock than any other man in Lincoln county, when asked in regard to the election said, "I shall support the nominee of the Democratic party." Dr. H. H. Montgomery, another large owner of National Bank stock, is not so illuded by his pecuniary interest as to pretend to champion the cause of National Banks, but has always opposed them. Then John S. Davis, also a stock holder, said "of course I will vote for the nominee, I never thought of doing otherwise." T. H. Miller, Esq., who has the ballot and influence would both go for Thompson. Col. Geo. W. Alfred, originally one of Durham's most ardent supporters, said, "I vote for principles, not men, and if any body doubts that I will vote for the nominee, he is at liberty to examine my ballot on election day." Mr. J. A. Harris, who, before the nomination, was for Mr. Durham, said and truly, has laid aside his personal preferences, and replied to our question, "Yes, I am going to support the nominee, he always does so, and am too old now to go back on cherished principles." Many others assured us of their fidelity, but we mention these because they have as much reason for a lack of enthusiasm as any men we know of.

STATE AUDITOR.—Wednesday, preceding the address of Dr. Blackburn, Col. J. N. Nuckols, a prominent aspirant for State Auditor, was introduced to the audience and in a short speech earnestly urged that the people of Lincoln should remember him when they were ready to make up their ticket. His remarks were kindly received, and produced a fine impression on the audience of his worth and his true gentlemanly qualities. Col. Nuckols is a native of Warren county, where he has repeatedly served as County Clerk, always being elected by such majorities that show the high estimation in which he is held by his own people. Although occupying the office of Quarter Master General, he is said to have suggested the importance of abolishing the office, which was done at the last session of the Legislature, at a saving of $2,000 annually, to the State. As a gallant soldier, Col. Nuckols is loyal and respected by our people. With a manly determination he fought and bled for the cause so dear to every Southern heart, but when he saw that victory was not to crown his efforts, he yielded a cheerful obedience to the power, and since the war has done much to fill up the bloody chasm produced by it. He regards his chances for the nomination as flattering and is much pleased with attention and kindness shown him wherever he goes. A number of good workers here enrolled in his behalf.

COURT CASES.—Two or three tedious cases have occupied the attention of the Court since our last report, consequently the number of verdicts has been comparatively small. John Cain, charged with the burning of a house belonging to the heirs of Parks Taylor, was found guilty and his punishment fixed at 10 years in the Penitentiary. John T. Helm was fined $25 for assault on Jesse E. Carter.

MARY SIGALL, colored, for keeping a lawless house, had to plunk up a fine of $25.

W. R. James, who, with George Saunders and others, was indicted for breaking open the store of Mr. John Buchanan, and stealing goods therefrom, swore and proved that he could not get justice in this county, and a change of venue was granted to Glasgow. He was allowed bail in the sum of $500. Sam Humber, charged with the same offense, was also allowed a hearing in Glasgow.

Bob Beatty, negro, broke into the store of J. N. Davis, of this place, some time since, and robbed it of sundry articles. He pleaded guilty, but the judge did not take with the jury, so he was sent up for four years.

Alfred Westmoreland, a tramp, who stole a watch from Judge Bailey, was given one year to learn a trade.

George Bryant, negro, for attempted rape on Mrs. Smith, a white woman, was sent to the Penitentiary for four and a half years.

The grand jury had found 67 indictments up to last evening, which is adjourned to meet again on Saturday. Of this number one is for murder, eight for other felonies, thirty-eight for carrying concealed weapons, eight for carrying concealed weapons, and the remainder for misdemeanors of various character.

The trial of Peter Cain for the burning of Parks Taylor's house, was in progress at the adjournment of the Court last evening. Four of the Cain brothers are now confined in the jail here.

DR. LEKE P. BLACKBURN.—This grand old hero, who has endeared himself to Kentucky, and to the people every where, not only by his recent efforts in behalf of the sick and dying in the score of the South, but by his philanthropic deeds extending through a long life of usefulness and labor, honored our people with his presence this week, and on Wednesday, addressed a large audience. He was very handsomely introduced by Col. C. H. Robertson, who referred to him as one of nature's noblemen, who not only varied his heart in his hand, but his life, which he was at all times ready to offer up for the benefit of his race. After an acknowledgment of the complimentary introduction, Dr. Blackburn announced that he was a candidate for Governor, and gave some excellent reasons why he should be honored with the highest gift in the power of the people of the State. He had no higher ambition than to become the Chief Executive of the grand old Commonwealth of Kentucky, preferring it with the approval of his administration by a majority of its people, to the Presidency of the United States. He wanted no other office, and having no greater hopes in prospect, and no greater popularity to seek, he would be able to perform his duty with an eye single to the public's good.

A REVEREND COMPLIMENT.—Quite a number of our best citizens, led by the Valley Circuit Band of this place, headed by Dr. P. Blackburn, a serenade, at his hotel, on Wednesday night. The Doctor came out, and in a very neat address, acknowledged the handsome compliment. Col. J. P. Nuckols and Mr. H. H. Harrison were in turn called for, each of whom responded very happily, and there was a general feeling of good feeling. Dr. Blackburn has reason to feel proud of his reception in Stanford.

CRAB GRUBBAGE, ATTENTION!—Hon. J. B. Beck, who has a National reputation as an orator, and who no one always backs his assertions with proof and figures, will speak at Uxbridge, to-morrow afternoon, at 2 o'clock. The times-honored principles of the Democracy will be discussed, and the urgent necessity of standing by its principles will be impressed with force and logic. Let every body, especially the weak-kneed and wavering turn out to hear him. R. C. Warren, Esq., and other good speakers will be present.

THE LIVE BRANCH OF PIPE, if you please, and wholly oblivious of the past, will kindly greet you with a hearty welcome to this paradise of health, with a full share in our glorious future prospects. "So mote it be."

THE DEMOCRATS OF BOYLE ARE BECOMING thoroughly aroused for action on the 5th. Judge Durham, Col. C. E. Bowman, Robert Harding and C. E. Kiehn, spoke to a large and enthusiastic crowd at Mitchellburg and Shelby City, last Saturday. We were pleased to hear that our young friends, Harding and Kiehn, discussed with ability, such intricate political questions as Finance and Tariff.

THE CROSS AT DANVILLE.—Thos. L. Jones, J. C. S. Blackburn, Dick Jones and General Nuckols addressed a crowded Court-house on the night of the 25th. The large and well behaved audience listened with the most attentive ear to the speeches. That of Blackburn in particular was received with enthusiastic applause. The Democratic voters of the Eighth District were always been awarded the blue ribbon, and feel that this Fall we are more entitled to it than ever. To our stock of the celebrated R. L. Stevens & Co's goods we have added a very cheap and nice assortment of Eastern goods, in pegged and sewed, in prices that cannot be duplicated in this market.

THE SECOND PRESBYTERIAN church was the scene of a second elegant wedding during the month of October. On the 20th, at 11 A. M., Miss Iva V. (the only daughter of Dr. Samuel Ayres) was united in marriage to Mr. J. D. Vaughan, of Louisville. The groom is the son of J. D. Vaughan & Co., wholesale tobacconists, and highly esteemed alike in the social and business circles. The bride is one of our most charming ladies, uniting a cultivated mind with winning manners, and a handsome and graceful person. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and evergreens, the designs and arrangement displaying the exquisite taste of Misses Helm, Anderson and Archibald. Over the heads of the bride and groom was suspended in mid air, as it were, the time-honored marriage-bell, composed of choicest fawns. At the appointed hour as the bridal party entered, the Organ, under the skillful hands of Prof. E. Grimmer, pealed forth joyous strains from "O! Traveller." Two Ushers, Dr. W. Johnston and Mr. J. C. Fackler, led the way up the right aisle, followed by the attendants, Mr. H. T. Moustaine, of Louisville, and Miss Lucie G. Bowman, Mr. Wm. Ayres and Miss Lizzie Williams, from Louisville; Mr. Jas. W. Marley, of Louisville, and Miss Virginia S. Urquhart; Mr. James J. Bethel, of Louisville, and Miss Anna Wilson, from Versailles. After these, two other ushers, Messrs. John W. Yerkes and J. A. Quisenberry, preceded the bride and groom to the altar. The father of the bride officiated, and in solemnly impressive words invoked a blessing upon the happy pair. His voice was tremulous with emotion in giving his dearly loved daughter in the love and protection of others. The dignified looking bride wore a dark wine-colored silk, trimmed with velvet of the same shade and gilt, a very becoming bonnet of corresponding color, and diamonds. Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan left on the 1 o'clock train for a Northern tour, bearing with them the hearty good wishes of all. May the circle of their felicitous long and arduous, ever lengthening with recurring years. We have for some time anticipated from the exuberant notices in the matrimonial column of the Advertiser, that some body there was threatened with the "prevaling" on the 25th ult., in the Fourth Presbyterian church, Louisville, the illustrious John Zimmerman claimed as his bride, Miss Annie K. Frederick. Among the attendants were Mr. J. Wesley Durham and Miss Mary Russell, of this place. Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman reached Louisville, Tuesday evening, and met a warm welcome home.

His voice was tremulous with emotion in giving his dearly loved daughter in the love and protection of others. The dignified looking bride wore a dark wine-colored silk, trimmed with velvet of the same shade and gilt, a very becoming bonnet of corresponding color, and diamonds. Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan left on the 1 o'clock train for a Northern tour, bearing with them the hearty good wishes of all. May the circle of their felicitous long and arduous, ever lengthening with recurring years. We have for some time anticipated from the exuberant notices in the matrimonial column of the Advertiser, that some body there was threatened with the "prevaling" on the 25th ult., in the Fourth Presbyterian church, Louisville, the illustrious John Zimmerman claimed as his bride, Miss Annie K. Frederick. Among the attendants were Mr. J. Wesley Durham and Miss Mary Russell, of this place. Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman reached Louisville, Tuesday evening, and met a warm welcome home.

THE DEMOCRATS OF BOYLE ARE BECOMING thoroughly aroused for action on the 5th. Judge Durham, Col. C. E. Bowman, Robert Harding and C. E. Kiehn, spoke to a large and enthusiastic crowd at Mitchellburg and Shelby City, last Saturday. We were pleased to hear that our young friends, Harding and Kiehn, discussed with ability, such intricate political questions as Finance and Tariff.

THE CROSS AT DANVILLE.—Thos. L. Jones, J. C. S. Blackburn, Dick Jones and General Nuckols addressed a crowded Court-house on the night of the 25th. The large and well behaved audience listened with the most attentive ear to the speeches. That of Blackburn in particular was received with enthusiastic applause. The Democratic voters of the Eighth District were always been awarded the blue ribbon, and feel that this Fall we are more entitled to it than ever. To our stock of the celebrated R. L. Stevens & Co's goods we have added a very cheap and nice assortment of Eastern goods, in pegged and sewed, in prices that cannot be duplicated in this market.

THE SECOND PRESBYTERIAN church was the scene of a second elegant wedding during the month of October. On the 20th, at 11 A. M., Miss Iva V. (the only daughter of Dr. Samuel Ayres) was united in marriage to Mr. J. D. Vaughan, of Louisville. The groom is the son of J. D. Vaughan & Co., wholesale tobacconists, and highly esteemed alike in the social and business circles. The bride is one of our most charming ladies, uniting a cultivated mind with winning manners, and a handsome and graceful person. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and evergreens, the designs and arrangement displaying the exquisite taste of Misses Helm, Anderson and Archibald. Over the heads of the bride and groom was suspended in mid air, as it were, the time-honored marriage-bell, composed of choicest fawns. At the appointed hour as the bridal party entered, the Organ, under the skillful hands of Prof. E. Grimmer, pealed forth joyous strains from "O! Traveller." Two Ushers, Dr. W. Johnston and Mr. J. C. Fackler, led the way up the right aisle, followed by the attendants, Mr. H. T. Moustaine, of Louisville, and Miss Lucie G. Bowman, Mr. Wm. Ayres and Miss Lizzie Williams, from Louisville; Mr. Jas. W. Marley, of Louisville, and Miss Virginia S. Urquhart; Mr. James J. Bethel, of Louisville, and Miss Anna Wilson, from Versailles. After these, two other ushers, Messrs. John W. Yerkes and J. A. Quisenberry, preceded the bride and groom to the altar. The father of the bride officiated, and in solemnly impressive words invoked a blessing upon the happy pair.
